I want Christmas Eve to be a legislated a public holiday because:

It is time that should be shared with families. It’s a time where parents organise Christmas day festivities/food and presents. It’s the beginning of a few days with family and friends. Time to slow down and remember what Christmas is really about. Especially working in the retail industry we or some lose the real meaning of it. Because it’s all gifts/money and stress. It’s really not.

I'm not a robot. I'm a person with feelings and beliefs. And one belief is that all of Xmas should be a public holiday. It's part of who I am. Companies should not be allowed to take our cultural/national holidays away from us. If they want to open on the few "special days" in the year that belong to us as families or individuals, then they must pay us extra for it.....because we are not robots.

I miss out on the special time with family as they prepare for the big day. We have a big family and relatives come from everywhere and it is so exciting to catch up with them and I miss that night as they gather around the kitchen and prepare for Christmas Day. Some times we have to travel to relatives for Christmas and depending where I have to go I have to leave after work that night or get up really early Christmas morning either way I am tired. Work will not let us have Christmas Eve, so yes it would be much appreciated to get the extra pay for what most people would not prepared to do and that is work Christmas eve night. I work for Coles my roster is for midnight but they do let us finish at 10pm Christmas Eve we just come in Two hours earlier.

I want Christmas Eve to be a legislated a public holiday because:

retail workers get a completely unfair deal at Christmas. I have worked in banking, hospitality and retail my whole life and I have never had time off to spend Christmas with my family because every one of these puts a blackout on holidays for the whole month of December. If it is good enough for teachers and childcare workers to have Christmas off then the least they can do is pay retail workers a public holiday rate for putting up with them on Christmas eve instead of being home preparing for the most important day of the year. Why don't you also do something to stop businesses from banning holidays at Christmas time as well because I applied for leave on the 10 December to attend my daughters graduation from university and the request was declined because it is in the blackout period.

I want Christmas Eve to be a legislated a public holiday because:

There are so few days that are truly devoted to family gatherings. I consider this to be one of those evenings. By ignoring every important event that this country has valued over the past, we slowly chip away at our cultural foundations. Regardless of religion, it has become a day to gather and celebrate and as a shift worker for the last 10 years I truly missed out on my children's excitement about the coming day, and I will never have those memories. I hope this motion is passed so I have the option to enjoy my grandchildren's excitement. Also with so many split families these days it gives a great chance to spend time with two sides of family on consecutive days.

Because we might not be a doctor or a nurse or even a police officer but christmas still is no different for retail workers aswell, we all have a family to that im sure we love to be spending our christmas eve with. But we still choose to come into work for nothing extra on christmas eve & for some workers it ends up being a very late christmas eve to, make sure you all are able to do your last minute christmas shopping and grab anything you may have forgot beforehand so you are all able to have the best christmas day you possibly can! (And sometimes for us workers we never even get to finish our own Christmas shopping because we've worked all day and when we finish our shift everything is now closed or even al lot of the time sold out of what we needed!

I want Christmas Eve to be a legislated a public holiday because:

This is a time of year that should be about families, and it is difficult for it to be a time for families when retail, fast food and warehouse employees are working. Public holidays should not be limited to some industries and not others. As it stands, there are currently 10 nationally recognised public holidays, of which there are only 3 that the retailer that I work for actually don’t trade. For the last 10 years I have worked ALL public holidays, my family have repeatedly missed either Christmas or New Years because I was required to work. How is this family friendly??

I want Christmas Eve to be a legislated a public holiday because:

Not only does working late Christmas Eve encroach on family time, the added stress of customer dissatisfaction over the holiday period makes relaxing on Christmas Day extremely difficult. I have often gotten home at 11pm after trying to move customers from the store after closing (because we have lives too) and struggled to wind down enough to get a decent few hours sleep. Compensation for the missed family time, while not a quick fix, would at least make me feel appreciated for the extra effort put in.

I want Christmas Eve to be a legislated a public holiday because:

I believe Christmas is a time to be spent with family. There is no need for extended working hours. People have enough time to shop leading up to Christmas.

I want Christmas Eve to be a legislated a public holiday because:

I believe that the extended hours should be enough. And that retailers need time off to re-energize before Christmas day so they can enjoy the day with family as most work Boxing Day.

I want Christmas Eve to be a legislated public holiday because:

It lessens the stress of this period with so much planning, shopping and organising for xmas that an extra payed day from work would help so many families out and ultimately gives more time for families to be with eachother.

I feel that, as a retail employee in Queensland, we deserve to have time to organise our Christmas celebrations and most importantly, spend time with our families in doing same. Extended opening hours have eroded this privilege.

I want Christmas Eve to be a legislated a public holiday because:

it is important to keep traditions going within the family and especially the young ones, this involves stories and baking and wrapping before xmas day. this takes time, difficult to do if you have to work, or tired from. the young ones go to bed early but need that exciting interaction with family first.
